Skip Tracing Investigations

Skip tracing is a service that utilises data sourcing and investigative skills to locate persons of interest. 'Skip' refers to an individual who is attempting to evade legal ramifications or other detection by vacating their address and eliminating the ability to contact them, and the process of 'skip tracing' refers to the process of locating these individuals who cannot be located under regular circumstances. Adjuster Corp offers professional skip tracing services for a wide variety of circumstances to enable you to locate or build a comprehensive profile on these individuals.

Here at Adjuster Corp, we understand the need for an individual's privacy, however we also are aware that clients may have a need to contact or locate such persons for varying reasons – they may be, required in court as a witness, sought for insurance and recover purposes or even be an offending debtor. As a result, Adjuster Corp has strategically invested in the latest systems and technologies to provide our clients with every legally available search facility and database currently in circulation. When these databases are combined with the professional investigation methodologies adopted by our team, it will quickly become apparent why hundreds of high-profile clients are turning to Adjuster Corp for their skip tracing needs.

We use a proprietary method and analytic systems to locate persons of interests, which is unique to Adjuster Corp.

The team at Adjuster Corp believe that a talented skip tracer is someone who is friendly and who can engage individuals in conversation without making them aware that they are trying to obtain specific information. They are skilled in lateral thinking and can find work-arounds for fresh data. Our government-licensed investigators are trained to deliver a high success rate of locating or building a profile on subject persons in a timely manner.

Adjuster Corp can assist you in finding missing individuals throughout Australia and overseas. No matter how small your piece of evidence, Adjuster Corp can utilise this information and exhaust all databases to get you answers.

Adjuster Corp uses inhouse Government licensed former police investigators to find fresh leads when there is no contact information, or it is outdated, and initial skip tracing attempts yield no specific result. By using these potent investigative assets in symbiosis we often get results which would otherwise go undetected.

It is our priority that each matter will be treated with strict privacy and confidential. After our investigations, the team at Adjuster Corp will provide a comprehensive report with copies of our findings, and our evidence, including copies of search extracts from our professional search databases to support our results.
